I. Quality of Participation

Mr. Brunstetter was a very helpful and active participant in the TDC group. He had very good attendance and positively engaged with other group members. He made significant contributions to each discussion by reading handouts aloud and sharing insights and personal experiences. He assisted other group members with understanding concepts and worked well in small groups. His homework assignments were thorough and honest. He demonstrated respect for others and the group leader.

II. Commitment to Continuing Growth

Mr. Brunstetter showed a strong commitment to personal growth and change throughout the group. He made a sincere effort to relate the material in each session to his own life and goals. He has been working to confront his personal issues and improve his thinking patterns and pro-social behaviors.

III. Further Treatment Issues to be Addressed

Mr. Brunstetter would benefit from continued cognitive-behavioral programming upon release to support his personal growth and success in the community.
